JUAN IN BRITAIN

Juan wanted to go to Britain to speak English with real English people. His sister’s husband was an English doctor and when Juan wrote to her, his sister, whose name was Rosa, invited him to stay with her. She met him at the airport in her English ear and naturally spoke Spanish all the time.

“Never mind,” he thought, “the husband speaks English...” But this Englishman spoke Spanish and he liked Spanish food and a Spanish atmosphere-when he came home in the evening.
Juan’s sister had only Spanish friends and Juan did not speak a word of English.

One morning about nine o’clock he attacked the milkman who was putting two bottles of milk on the doorstep. He suddenly opened the door and said “Good morning.” The milkman said “Good morning” and walked away.

Finally, his big day came. One of Rosa’s friends had a party and invited Juan. At last he was going to meet real English people of his own age. He wanted to go up to people but could not.

Suddenly a very beautiful girl came up to him and said, “How lucky you are Spanish. I am having a Spanish exam soon. I can practise on you.” And she invited him to dance in Spanish.

From that moment he gave up. And two months later he went home quite happy.

V. Do you want me to drive on the wrong side?
P. You are driving on the wrong side.
V. But you said that I was driving on the right side.
P. That’s right. You’re on the right, and that’s wrong.
V. A strange country! If right is wrong, I’m right when I ’m on the wrong side. So why did you stop me?
P. My dear sir, you must keep to the left. The right side is the left.
V. It’s like a looking-glass! I’ll try to remember. Well, I want to go to Bellwood. Will you kindly tell me the way?
P. Certainly. At the end of this road, turn left.
V. Now let me think. Turn left! In England left is right, and right is wrong. Am I right?
P. You’ll be right if you turn left. But if you turn right, you’ll be wrong.
V. Thank you. It’s as clear as daylight.

FRUITFUL CO-OPERATION

A little over ten years ago Uzbekistan Airways established its first representative office abroad in the Federative Republic of Germany. It is a good reason not only inform our readers on its activity, but also to have a look at relations between Uzbekistan and Germany in general, especially since they can provide an example of mutually fruitful and successful cooperation.

The cooperation between two countries is regulated by a number of treaties both in political, economic and cultural fields. At present, Germany has an air transportation base through which it delivers, supplies them with medical aid. The legal framework for this cooperation is provided by the agreement on Transit across the territory of the Republic of Uzbekistan. The document regulates numerous legal issues related to the right of troop’s distribution and stay, flights and funding issues.

Concerning the political field we must remember International organizations upholding universal values of which both Germany and Uzbekistan are members. According to them both countries have assumed certain legal commitments. Membership in the United Nations rates first. However, OSCE membership also imposes important obligations on us.

After a line of new countries joined to the European Union, Europe has become even more important for Uzbekistan. The European Union has signed an agreement on partnership and cooperation with Uzbekistan.

Cultural relations between two countries are fundamentally enshrined in the agreement on cultural cooperation of Germany and Uzbekistan signed at the earliest stage of bilateral relations in 1993. This fact confirms an importance of the cultural sphere for both states.

Germany is interested in Uzbekistan’s successful development/Germany had a similar experience: a socially oriented market economy, under which economic liberalization and reform should not be ignored, is good for the population. Success wel secure, prosperity, security, and stability.

Exercise 1. Answer the following questions:
1. When did Uzbekistan establish its first representative office in the Federative Republic of Germany?
2. How is the cooperation between Uzbekistan and Germany regulated?

Reading passage
Time yourself and begin to read

CHINESE VASE

When I was a child I often went to see my grandmother. I thought her house was as beautiful as a palace and the garden seemed bigger than a park.
As I grew older I the house and garden seemed smaller but I still loved visiting the old lady. There were so many beautiful things in the house.
Sometimes I played with the doll’s house which was older than Grandmother herself; at other times I looked at books which were more interesting than my children’s books at home.
I loved her pictures and the old clock, but most of all I loved a big Chinese vase which stood in the hall. It was taller than me, and I could not see inside it. I walked round and round it looking at the beautiful ladies and the birds and flowers and trees, and grandmother often told me stories about these ladies.
When I married I took my two sons to visit their great-grandmother. They did not like the beautiful books and the vase as much as I did. They preferred playing football in the garden.

Before she died, grandmother gave me the vase I loved so much. It was beautiful in our modern hall.

One day I came home from the shops. Two small boys met me at the door. They looked guilty. Paul had a ball in his hands.

Exercise 9. Retell the text putting each sentence into indirect speech, using the verbs to know, to understand, to remember, to hope, to think etc. in the Past Indefinite Tense in the principal clause:

ON THE TRAIN

We are going to have a long journey. I have booked two tickets – a lower and an upper berth in a sleeper. We leave on Saturday at ten fifteen. It is a through train and a stopping one, not an express. We shall not have to change. Our train runs to schedule, it will take us 28 hours to reach our destination. As to our luggage, it is better to give it to a porter and put it in the van. When I travelled by train last year, I placed my suit-case on the rack and kept the handbags with me. During our journey we can have dinner on the train. The dining-car attendant will come to our compartment and we shall be able to order our lunch. There will be two fellow-travellers in our compartment. We shall enjoy our journey.

Exercise 10. Translate into English:

Exercise 11. Arrange short dialogues according to the models:

Exercise 12. Read the dialogue and retell it:

_In the Street_

A. Where shall we go to-day?
B. It’s for you to decide. You know the city better than I do.
A. Well, let’s begin with some points of interest. Come this way. please.
B. Please, walk more slowly. I want to have a good look at the city.
A. All right! Do you see that monument at the bottom of the street? It is a monument to A. Navoi, our great Uzbek poet.
B. Oh, yes, I do. What a beautiful monument it is!
A. Let’s cross the road and turn into that side-street. I want to show you some interesting buildings.
B. As you like. Everything is of great interest to me. I would like to see everything. I don’t like to walk alone. Being a perfect stranger I am afraid to lose my way. I thank you so much for your help.
A. Don’t be afraid of that. If you lose your way, you must come to a militiaman or passer-by and ask: «Please, tell me what bus I must take to get to the centre of the city», or «Please, tell me where the trolley-bus stop is», or «Can you show me the nearest way to the Post Office?» or something like that.
B. But I am afraid he will not understand me. I don’t know Uzbek well enough.
A. Never mind! I am sure everybody will try to help you.
B. You see. I understand quite well when people speak slowly, but most people speak too quickly. By the way, where does this main street lead?
A. It leads straight to Navoi street.
B. Is the metro far from here?

What letter is it?

a) The beginning of evening, b) The poor have two,
The end of time and space, The rich have none,
The beginning of every end, Millions have many,
And the end of every place. You have one.

Playing game for the pronunciation of the sound [v]

Playing Airplane

Teacher: Did you ever try to imitate a flying plane? I think you stretched your arms apart, inclined your body a little, and here you are... flying. And now about English children? They do just the same, with a little difference: instead of the Russian sound [ə] they say [v]. Try and do the way the English children of your age do.

The plane is travelling up in the sky,

vvv — vvv — vvv,

Moving so fast, and ever so high,

vvv — vvv — vvv.

Over the land, and over the sea,

vvv — vvv — vvv.

But we always come back in time for to,

vvv — vvv — vvv.

The Motor-Boat

Teacher: And how could you imitate the work of a motor boat? How do English children imitate it when playing? They believe that the sound [t] suits here best. You are surprised, aren’t you? It’s no wonder because the Russian sound [T] wouldn’t do here. But only try and say “putt, putt, putt” and the motor will start, and you will be gliding over the river. Let’s try and do it together!

I have a little motor boat.

It turns around the bay, And when I start my motor boat

It always seems to say.

ANCIENT DIPLOMATIC LINKS

On a hot summer day, in 1404, a mission from far-away castile arrived at the palace of the Movarrounahr king Amir Temur known in Europe as Tamerlane. The mission was headed by Spanish Nobleman Ruy Gonzalez do Clarijo. The event happened 600 years ago and was so important in the history of these two countries that it has been widely celebrated in the homeland of the Spanish grandee this year.

The mission appointed by Enrico the third king of castle and Zeone, was a return visit of the Spaniards. After triumphal victory over Turkey and the capital of Sultan Bayazid, Amir Temur received congratulations from the Spanish ring, because by his victory he eliminated the thread of invasion of Europe by the troops the ottoman Empire. Sahibkiran, as Amir Temur was called in his native land, then sent his envoy to Madrid with gifts, in order to "strengthen friendship". And then, the return mission arrived in Movarrounahr bringing rich present and the letter from the Spanish king. Ruy Gonzalez de Clavijo has left behind a Unique written testimony about the life of Amir Temur and his country.

The Diary has remained an important source in the history, ceremony, culture and everyday life in the Middle East and central Asia in the early XV th century. In his Diary de Clarijo dedicated many pages to Temur lane’s biography, his relations, military campaigns, trade and diplomatic activity. He described in detail the city of Samarkand, court ceremonies, sumptuous royal receptions and celebrations. De Clarijo described in detail luxury of the palaces in Samarkand and country pavilions of Temur lane and member of his family and courtiers. He was especially amazed by the pavilions of Temur lane’s eldest wife Kanyo (Bibi-Khanum). Some pages of the Diary were dedicated to the development of crafts and trade in Samarkand.

WANTED: A GOLDFISH

A professor of physiology, whose name was Floyd, was out visiting one winter night, and the people at the house showed him a goldfish that had died because the water that it was in had got frozen. The professor looked at the fish and said, “Let me take it home and I think that tomorrow I can treat it in the laboratory and revive it.

Now indicate the logic sequence of the parts of the story which follow.

1. Floyd knelt down to pick it up, but he couldn’t find it and stayed there on his knees looking for it. Just then a policeman came along. He stopped and said, “What are you doing there?”
2. To please him the policeman knelt down and began looking in the snow and out came a goldfish! He was very much surprised.
3. Professor hate to be questioned. Floyd just looked over his shoulder and said, “I am trying to find a goldfish.”
4. “Great heavens!” he said. “Are there any more?” “Maybe a whole lot,” Floyd said. As the professor started off for home again, the policeman was still on his knees looking for goldfish.
5. The policeman then understood that he was dealing with a madman, and he said, “Now you just come along with me and I’ll take you to a place where we’ve a whole lot of goldfish – all you want.” “All right,” Floyd said, “only just help me to get this, one first

6. So when he started for home they wrapped the goldfish in a bit of paper and professor Floyd put it in his overcoat pocket. It was a cold night, very late and with lots of deep snow along the street. On the way home Floyd put his hand into his coat pocket and accidentally flipped out the gold-fish and it fell into the snow.

Game with the expression “So Do I”

Teacher: Supposing you want to build a house. How do you go about it?
Misha: You make a project first.
Teacher: Quite right, you think first what kind of house you want to have.
And if you are going on a trip?
Misha: You think of a route.
Teacher: And when you buy a shirt... you buy a shirt your friend has bought.
Misha: Yes, sometimes...
Teacher: Your friend likes jazz.
Misha: And so do I.
Teacher: That's it, “So do I”. Are you sure you always say “So do I” with full understanding? Let’s see. Say “So do I” whenever it’s reasonable, if it's against common sense, keep silent. I pick mushrooms in summer.
Misha: So do I.
Tea – her: I eat mushrooms.
Koliya: So do I.
Teacher: Bears eat mushrooms too.
Jane: So do I.
Teacher: Scars sleep all winter through.
Masfia: So do I.
Teacher: Congratulations! I never knew it. Are you sleeping now? Etc.

You may play the game with So am I, So did I, So shall I, I don’t like it either, etc.

Play game with “Who Does it?”

Teacher: Once I didn’t know what kind of animal came every day near my country-house. I asked a forester. Listen to the questions he asked:
Does it walk slowly?
Does it run?
Does it eat grass?
Does it eat leaves on the trees?
Does it get frightened when seeing you?
Does it come up close to people?
Nodir: I wanted to know what the animal could do.
Teacher: Yes, and soon he was able to say that it was an elk.
So you can tell one animal from another by its behaviour and way of life.
Teacher: Does it live in the forest?
Nodir: No, it doesn’t.
Teacher: Does it live with people?
Shohjahan: Yes it does.
Teacher. Does it drink milk.
Nodir: No, it doesn’t.
Teacher: does it bark?
Shohjahon: No, it doesn’t.
Teacher: Does it live in people’s house?
Dildora: No, it doesn’t.

TRAVELLING

People began to travel ages ago. The first travellers were explorers who went on trips to find wealth, fame or something else. Their journeys were very dangerous but still people keep on going to the unknown lands. Nowadays it is not as dangerous and much more convenient. Do you want to go somewhere? Hundreds of companies are there to help you. They will take care about your tickets and make all the reservations needed. You don’t speak the language of the country you go to? There are interpreters that will help you.

With modern services. You can go around the world. You can choose the means of transport you like: plane, train, ship, bicycle, car, bus or you can travel on foot. Thousands of people travel every day on business or for pleasure. They can travel by plane, by ship, by railway or by road. You can see much more places of the country you are traveling through. If we are fond of traveling we see and learn all sorts of things we can never see or learn at home. Though we may read about them in books and newspapers and see pictures of them at the cinema. The best way to study geography is to travel and the best way to get to know and understand the people is to meet them in their own houses. I like travelling. And I want to smell different smells. I want to see different kinds of trees, flowers and plants. When I spend a holiday in traveling I always take a camera with me and photograph everything that interests me: the sights of a city, views of mountains, lakes, valleys; the ruins of ancient buildings. Some years later that will remind me the happy time that I had.

People are fond of travelling. If you go to the North you can see large cold seas and many beautiful lakes. In the South there are warm seas, wonderful trees and flowers. If you go to the West, you will enjoy lots of wonderful places. In the East of our country there are big woods and high mountains. When you travel, you visit different places and learn a lot of people’s tradi-

As fair art thou, my bonnie lass
So deep in love am I;
And I will love thee still, my dear,
Till a the seas gang dry

Till a’ the seas gane dry, my dear
And rocks melt, the sun
And I will love thee still, my dear
While the sands o’life shall run

And fare thee well, my only Love
And fare thee well a while
And I will come again, my Love
Tho’ it were ten thousand mile

TRAVELLING BY TRAIN

Travelling by train is slower than by plane, but it has its advantages. Comfort and safety are the main advantages of trains. That is why many people prefer train to all other means. Modern trains have very comfortable seats. There are also sleeping cars and dining cars which make even the longest journey enjoyable. If I travel by train my friends see me off at the railway station.

Millions of people all over the world spend their holidays travelling. They travel to see other countries and continents, modern cities and the ruins of ancient towns, they travel to enjoy picturesque places, or just for a change of scene, they travel on business. It is always interesting to discover new things, different ways of life, to meet different people, to try different food, to listen to different musical rhythms. People travel by train, by boat, by car, by plain. All means of travelling have their advantages and disadvantages. And people choose one according to their plans and destinations. I want to talk about travel by train. If people are short of time they usually travel by air. But if they have time they prefer to go by train. You have speed, comfort and pleasure combined with a train. From the comfortable corner seat of a carriage you have a splendid view of the country side. Let’s imagine that we are at the railway station. There are a lot of platforms at which trains come in and go out. The porters are very busy carrying luggage. There are a lot of notices in a big railway station. You may see the Entrance and Exit. There is also a waiting room. If you are hungry or thirsty you'll go to the Refreshment room. If you don’t know the number of the platform from which your train leaves look for the notices Arrivals and Departures. You can see the notice. Booking office. This where you buy tickets.

THOSE EVENING BELLS

by Thomas Moore

Those evening bells! those evening bells!
How many a tale their music tells,
Of youth and home and that sweet time
When last I heard their soothing chime.

Those joyous hours are past away;
And many a heart, that then was gay,
Within the tomb now darkly dwells
And hears no more those evening bells

And so ‘t will be when I am gone;
That tuneful peal will still ring on
While other bards shall walk these dells
And sing your praise, sweet evening bells

Great Silk Road

The Silk Roads
An Educational Resource  By Morris Rossabi

The Silk Roads, an incurably romantic subject which offers a splendid source for secondary school teachers and students alike, linked the civilizations of Eurasia for much of premodern history, starting as early as the second century B.C.E., if not earlier. China, Central Asia, West Asia, and, to a lesser extent, Europe, were placed in touch with each other via the Silk Roads. The economic significance of their contacts in pre-1500 history may have been exaggerated, but their cultural impact can hardly be overstated, and the political influences, particularly during the era of the Mongol empire, have only, of late, received much attention.

Major themes of cultural borrowing, interactions of civilizations, and the development of new economic institutions and technologies to facilitate commerce, together with the sheer excitement of travel and adventure, can be conveyed through historical descriptions of the Silk Roads. East and West Asian civilizations that have often received short shrift in the secondary-school curriculum can be brought to life through study of the history of the Silk Roads. Even nineteenth and twentieth-century relations between Asia and Europe, when the Silk Roads appear to have lost much of their significance, can be profitably analyzed through examination of clashes of interests along these old East-West caravan routes.

A good pedagogical device in teaching about the Silk Roads is to focus on specific individuals or occasionally composites – travelers, merchants, missionaries, adventurers, entertainers, and others – who embody the central historical themes. Teachers are blessed with a panoply of fascinating figures who played roles in the long history of the Silk Roads. More fortuitous still, quite a number either wrote accounts of their travels or were themselves the leading figures of contemporaneous histories, diaries, or biographies. Primary sources, often laced with excitement, humor, and insights, thus can constitute the core of a unit on the Silk Roads. The teacher naturally may need to select and edit these accounts to eliminate unfamiliar names of persons or places or irrelevant recital of events that might encumber or deflect the students’ interest.

Growing scholarly and pedagogical concern for global history has resulted in the writing of secondary studies of great value to teachers seeking to impart educational themes related to the Silk Roads. Jerry Bentley’s Old World Encounters, with its emphasis on cultural relations and interactions, offers compact surveys of religious and technological diffusion, while Philip Curtin’s Cross-Cultural Trade in World History focuses on commerce, with descriptions of trade in specific commodities. S. M. Adshead’s Central Asia in World History demonstrates the significance of that relatively unstudied region, which travelers and caravans needed to traverse, and my own “The ‘Decline’ of the Central Asian Caravan Trade” analyzes the essential conditions for the proper operation of the Silk Roads. In Plagues and Peoples, William McNeill describes the diffusion of diseases both via the Silk Roads and seaborne commerce. Though Janet Abu-Lughod’s Before European Hegemony makes a compelling argument for the importance of the Silk Roads trade, it is marred by factual errors and must be used with care. All these works are available in paperback editions and are thus accessible to teachers who seek additional information.

TRAVELLING BY AIR

Of course, traveling by air is the fastest and the most convenient way, but it is the most expensive too. Speed is the main advantage planes. That is why many people prefer plane to all other means. It’s difficult to buy tickets for the plane. That’s why we buy our tickets beforehand. When I travel by plane, I don’t spend a lot of time going from one place to another. I like to fly.

If I travel by plane my friends see me off in the airport. Many people prefer travelling by air as it is the most convenient, comfortable and fastest means of travelling. If you have made up your mind to travel by plane you need to go the booking office to buy tickets beforehand. Each passenger is allowed 20 kilograms of luggage free of charge. Before boarding the plane the passenger must register at the airport. When registering the passenger is required to have his luggage weighed. Before the plane takes off the stewardess gives all the information about the flight, the speed and the altitude. Inside the cabin the air is always fresh and warm. The stewardess helps everyone get comfortable in the seats and wishes you a pleasant trip.

TRAVELLING ON FOOT (HIKING)

Some people usually have long walks in the country. Such walks are called hikes. If we want to see countryside we have to spend a part of our summer holidays on hikes. During such hikes we see a lot of interesting places, sometimes we meet interesting people. It’s useful for all members of our family. We take our rucksacks. We don’t think about tickets and there is no need to hurry up.

TWILIGHT

By George Gordon Byron

It is the hour when from the boughs
The nightingale’s high note is heard;
It is the hour when lovers’ vows
Seem sweet in every whisper’d word;
And gentle winds, and wasters near,
Make music to the lonely ear.
Each flower the dews have lightly wet
And in the sky stars are met
And on the wave is deeper blue
And on the leaf a browner hue
And in the heaven that clear obscure
So softly dark, and darkly pure,
Which follows the decline of day,
As twilight melts beneath the moon away.

TRAVELLING BY SEA

Some people like to travel by sea. As for them it is the most pleasant means of travelling. They prefer traveling by an ocean liner because it combines comfort and speed. You can enjoy fresh sea air, the sights of the sea and the sky. If you want to travel by sea you should book passage on board a modern liner. These liners are real floating cities with all modern conveniences and a wide choice of sport and entertainment facilities. You needn’t worry about your meals on board the modern liner. Restaurants will take care of you. Travelling by sea is very popular. Large ships and small river boats can visit foreign countries and different places of interest within their own country.

TRAVELLING BY CAR

As for me, I prefer travelling by car. I think it’s very convenient. You needn’t reserve tour tickets. You needn’t carry heavy suitcases. You can stop wherever you wish, and spend at any place much time as you like. Every year place friend and I go somewhere to the South for holidays. The Black Sea is one of the most wonderful places which attract holiday-makers all over the world. There are many rest-homes, sanatoriums and tourist camps there. But it is also possible to rent a room or a furnished house for a couple of weeks there. Sometimes, we can place ourselves in a tent on the sea shore enjoying fresh air and the sun all day long.

As a rule, I make new friends there. In the day-time we play volleyball, tennis, swim in the warm water of the sea and sunbathe. In the evening I like to sit on the beach watching the sea and enjoying the sunset. I am fond of mountaineering. So I do a lot of climbing together with my friends. Time passes quickly and soon we have to make our way back. We return home sun burnt and full of impressions. I like to travel by car. It’s interesting too, because you can see many things in a short time. When we go by car, we don’t take tickets. We put all things we need in a car. We don’t carry then. Sometimes we go to the seaside for a few days. As usual the weather is warm and we can swim. It’s a pleasure to watch white ships. So I can say that I enjoy all kinds of traveling very much.

MILLION - RETURN TO EUROPE

Marko Polo spent seventeen years in the service of Kublai Khan. Those were the best years of his life, filled with exciting happenings, merchant business, diplomatic missions, love affairs. His father and his uncle also experienced the greatest honours and received prizes for their cleverness in trading and for their fidelity to the greatest ruler of the then world, the powerful Mongol political magician, Emperor Kublai Khan. But their life-cycle and the adult years of Marko Polo had to end in their native soil of Europe and in their homeland Venice, the powerful trading republic to which they had come from the ancient region of Dalmatia and the small Mediterranean town of Korcula.

They communicate their decision to Kublai Khan with a heavy heart. The Khan at that time was already seventy five years old. There was a great risk that the Great Khan would not release them from his service, because the Polos, and especially the young Marko, were dear to his heart. He had got used to them as extremely capable and not just ordinary persons coming from another civilization that, though it had not achieved the level of civilization of the greatest Asian country, China, from whom just the same he learned a lot. However, as always on their Odyssey through Asia, fortune smiled at them at the right moment. Bolgana, the first wife of the Persian khan Arghun wanted, before her death, a woman from her tribe in Mongolia to succeed her. Therefore, Arghun sent, in 1286, three messengers to Khanabalik asking the kindly Kublai Khan to choose a new wife for him among the beautiful Mongol girls. Kublai chose the princess Cocachin, a seventeen year old beauty. But the messengers, together with Cocachin, had to return to Khanabalik, because war broke out between the Mongol tribes en route. Marko Polo had then just returned from his successful mission in India. The Persian messengers suggested that he might help them to return to Persia by sea. Kublai Khan, although reluctantly, agreed to part company with his faithful dignitaries. He proclaimed the Polos his envoys to the Pope and the European kings and he gave them the small imperial plaque as a permit to secure them safe passage across his big empire. He ordered thirteen ships and enough food and equipment for two years of travel to be put at their disposal. Marko was amazed when he saw these big and powerful ships which were to carry them on their long journey. These were ships built with a double layer of planking, fastened with iron nails, and caulked with oakum. And since the Chinese had no pitch, the boats were coated on the bottom with a paste of quicklime and tung oil. There were sixty cabins in the interior of the boats, and the hold of the ship was divided by bulkheads into small, watertight compartments. In case whales rammed the vessel, the crew could confine the water to one compartment only, remove the cargo from it and repair the damage. This safety measure was not introduced into European vessels until the nineteenth century. As well as the big ships there sailed tug-boats with them in case of need. There were also, on each of the big boats, several smaller ones for fishing, anchoring and other work. The captain, with a crew of three hundred people, enjoyed really royal benefits and was regarded as a divinity.

The convoy of the Polos, with the princess Cocachin, and with at least two thousand people, left the port of Zayton in spring 1292.

Polo interrupts his story at this point to disclose to us what he had heard about the mysterious island 1,500 miles away from the Asian continent. He calls it Chipangu (modern Japan) and speaks with admiration about its great richness. He mentions the imperial palace with the golden roof, and with floors and windows of golden plaques, and about the abundance of pink pearls which are put in the mouth of the dead before a funeral. Marko’s description of the richness of Japan excited the imagination of the European discoverers of the new world - among others of Christopher Columbus, and the cartographer Toscanelli, whose map was used by Columbus, and which put Japan seven thousand miles west of Portugal. At that time, the famous European discoverers did not have the slightest idea that Japan is double that distance away from Europe, and that, between it and Europe there is a whole continent, North America. The famous Kublai Khan heard also about the richness of Japan and sent there two armies of 150,000 Mongol and Korean soldiers combined. They managed to establish a bridgehead on the island of Kyushu, but the Japanese held them there. Then a storm smashed almost the whole of Kublai’s armada. From 4,000 ships only 200 of them managed to escape a terrible destiny. Marko Polo, as Kublai’s loyal diplomat explains this rare defeat of his master as due to a dispute between two generals (“barons”) who commanded the united forces of the Mongols and the Koreans. However, Kublai’s great strength lay in horses, not in boats. Marko speaks also about a curious event which happened to the Khan’s soldiers when they managed to disembark on Japanese soil and continued to make war there. When they attacked one of the towers of the defenders they killed all the warriors except eight of them whom they were unable to hurt. They had embedded under their skin gold and precious stones so that no steel could pierce them. European explorers in the nineteenth century confirmed these curious stories of Marko’s. That was usual way in which Japanese soldiers tried to be invulnerable.
Exercise 2. Translate into your mother tongue.

For two months the Polo’s convoy was sailing from the port of Zayton to Indo-china (which Marko calls Champa). The king of Indo-china was paying annual tribute to the Great Khan of twenty elephants and much of the scented aloe wood.

Marko Polo and his escort were forced to stop in Sumatra for five months because of the southwest monsoons. As the natives were cannibals, Marko arranged a ditch filled with water round the camp on the coast and a strong guard. But, due to Marko’s diplomatic skill, these cannibals became very friendly and supplied our travellers with food. Then Marko saw, for the first time in his life, “nuts as big as human head” (coconuts), and the tree which gave flour for bread and cakes (sago). Marko says that fish in Sumatra is the best in the world. Marko’s escort drank palm wine after fish. They would put a cup under a cut in the palm tree and the vessel would be filled with white or red wine in a day and a half. Marko wrote that this wine is a cure for the sick spleen. When the cut branch does not give any more wine, the natives water the roots of the tree and wine starts to flow again very soon. The Malayans call this tree “gomuti” and they can also get sugar from it. Marko says that the liquid in the coconut “has a better taste than wine and than any drink that has ever existed”. Marko “saw” in Sumatra the mountain tribe whose members had tails like a dog.

Marko discovered divers searching for pearls in the shallow waters near Ceylon. As there were a lot of sharks in these waters, the tradesmen of the pearl shells would protect the divers by hiring a special caste of Brahmin sorcerers who would cast a spell on the sharks while the divers were picking up the shells. However, the sorcerers would remove their spell during the night lest rival divers should appear. It seems that the sorcerers did find some means of deterrence of sharks, as this practice was exercised for centuries.

Exercise 3. Make up dialogues.

Sailing towards the coasts of India, Marko Polo’s convoy reached the large nearby island of Ceylon. Marko sets here the story about the life of the Indian prince Sakyamuni, who became Buddha and founded the Buddhist religion. He was the son of the king of that big and rich island, who had an inclination towards the life of the saints from his early childhood. The king tried to persuade him to take over his throne. He built for him a big palace and ordered beautiful girls to entertain him with song, dance and other worldly pleasures. However, no girl managed to lure him into the world of pleasure, so that he remained alone, shut in the palace. His father did not allow any old or sick man to approach him, so that the young man was not aware about the inevitable end of every living being. But one day, the ill-fated prince rode to the nearby wood and saw a dead man on the road. When he asked what that thing which lay on the earth was, they told him it was a dead body. “Must all men die?” asked the prince with sorrow. He saw on the same road a toothless old man who could not walk. When he received, in this way, his first experience of the old age and death, the young prince returned to the palace and took a vow that he was going to look after That one who does not die and Who created him. Thus he reached the high mountains where he decided to live an ascetic life. If he were a Christian, Marko says, he would have become “the great saint of our Lord Jesus Christ” due to his good and pure life. When he untimely died, his body was brought in front of his father who loved him very much. The father ordered his servants to make a figure of gold and precious stones in his likeness and decreed that all had to worship it. The inhabitants of Ceylon proclaimed him the greatest of all their gods and they idolised him. Marko adds that the young prince died four times and each time he was reborn as another animal: ox, horse etc. But he was reborn as a god only after he had died eighty four times. Thus the Europeans learned from Marko’s story about the noble founder of the Buddhist religion. Although a member of another Church, Marko speaks with sympathy about the young Buddha. He confirms this affection for him by emphasizing that the Great Khan sent for Buddha’s relics from his tomb on the top of the mountain.

Marko shows similar benevolence towards the Indian Brahmins and yogis. He says that the Brahmins are the most honest tradesmen in the world, that they never lie and that they help foreigners to sell their goods without profit to themselves. They hate all killing and even the killing of animals. They believe very much in various signs and omens, as shades, and especially the movements of the tarantula spider. He says that yogis believe that all things have souls, and that they do not wish to kill either worm or lice. They do not use plates but they eat from dry leaves and they drink only water. They never mix with women. They sleep naked in nature without any covering and they reach a very old age.

Exercise 4. Express your attitude to the text.

Marko liked more the luxurious royal courts than the shacks of the poor. He was especially impressed by the Indian king from the Coromandel coast. The king did not wear any clothes because of the warm climate and he was always adorned with precious decorations; among other things, with a medallion of diamonds, a necklace of 104 pearls and rubies, gold bracelets on hands and legs and with rings on the fingers of both hands and legs. Five hundred women, together with many noblemen, accompanied the king wherever he went. When he died and was cremated, his subjects were throwing themselves in the fire in order to follow him. Marko mentions also the custom of suttee when wives throw themselves on the funeral pyre after their husband.

Marko’s frequent observation of the ritual of fire, as the way to achieve the divine life in heaven, speaks also about his restless, fiery temperament which incited him always to thirst after new knowledge and new adventures of both spirit and body.

Although Marko introduced India to Europe, with his accurate observations of the customs and the way of life of Indian inhabitants two centuries before Vasco de Gama - who was later celebrated as the discoverer of that “unknown” subcontinent - he could not ignore the fantastic legends extant before the time of his travels. One such story is about “the island of women” which was visited by men from their own island only in spring time. Another fable is that about the “roc” bird from Madagascar, which was so strong that it could carry three elephants. Even this fantastic story might prove to be true as was the case with other descriptions Marko’s. This bird is mentioned in the “Arabian Nights” from the seventh century in the story about the sailor Sinbad.

Finally, after more than two years of toilsome but exciting travelling across the south seas, the convoy arrived in Persia. Marko does not mention at all Scylla and Charybdis through which his expedition passed, all possible storms and distresses, the attacks of various native tribes and diseases, unbearable heat, rotten food and water. He summarizes all this in one single sentence when he says that from six hundred travellers, not counting the crew, only eighteen survived the journey.

After arriving at their destination, the court of the Persian shah Arghun, the Polos learned that he had died, but his son Ghazan resolved the awkward situation and decided to marry the princess Cacachin, who had been intended for his father. The Polos rested in Persia for eight months from their tiresome travelling and there they received the news that their friend and protector, the Great Khan, had died. The man they must thank, to a great extent, for their riches and their rich life filled with exciting events. The princess Cacachin was cried while she was bidding farewell to Marko Polo, and our convoy converted itself into a caravan. The Polos arrived over land to Trebizond on the Black Sea, where they were happy to meet the familiar faces of Venetian and Korculan tradesmen. But they experienced their first setback in that first port in touch with the Christian world. Thieves stole from them a big quantity of golden coins.

From Trebizond, via Constantinople and the Aegean Sea, they finally entered their Adriatic Sea and, by that well-known trade route passed by Marko’s native Korcula. That was in 1295, exactly 701 years ago.
Exercise 5. Retell the main idea of the text.

When he returned to Venice Marko was forty one years old and he had seen and experienced more than any of other citizen in the medieval Europe. Nobody among their friends (who did not even recognize them) believed in their stories. But Marko conceived a cunning plan. He organized a banquet at which he invited all his friends and distant relatives. Our three travellers put on the most expensive robes of satin, silk and damask. To their visitors’ amazement, the Polos took off their sumptuous clothes, left the banqueting hall and returned in the rags in which they had entered Venice, fearing that they would experience the same ill-luck as in Trebizond. Then, like the wizards from Thousand and One Night, they took off the poor rags and cut the seams with a knife. To the amazement of the incredulous Venetians, rubies, sapphires and emeralds started to fall. After that they were treated by their co-citizens with the greatest respect.

That was one more moral from Marko’s entire quest for the Grail. The human desire for the unattainable breaks all obstacles. But the real pleasure is in the journey towards the shining Grail, and not in the treasure itself, which Marko attained.

HOTEL 1

The earliest inns were established about 3000 B.C. Most of them were private homes whose owners provided rooms for travellers. Many early innkeepers did not keep the room clean, and they provided only crude meals for their guests. Several travelers usually had so share the same room and sometimes even the same bed. The quality of inns, especially of those in England, improved during the A.D. 1700’s, when more people began to travel for pleasure.

The first building in the United States constructed specifically as a hotel was the City Hotel, which opened in New York City in 1794. During the 1800’s, American innkeepers became the leaders in hotel development. At that time, only the wealthy could afford to stay at European hotels. In the United States, however, many hotels offered comfortable, inexpensive lodgings.

Early hotels had many beds, no lock on room doors, and no lobbies. Guests usually entered a hotel through a bar. In 1829, the Tremont House in Boston became the first hotel provide private rooms with locks. The Tremont also was the first hotel to have a lobby and to offer indoor plumbing.

Hotels expanded their services in the early 1900’s During that period, Ellsworth M. Statler, an American hotel operator, opened that included many new features. For example, Statler’s hotels provided private baths and full-length mirrors in each room.

Hotels have long been built near transportation centers. In the 1800’s and early 1900’s, when most people traveled by train, many hotels stood near railway stations. A great increase in automobile travel during the 1940’s and 1950’s led to the development of motels, many of which stand near major highways. Today, because many business people travel by airplane, many new are built in city centers and near airport.

DARKNESS

by George Gordon Byron

I had a dream, which was not all a dream
The bright sun was extinguished, and the stars
Did wander darkling in the eternal space
Ray less, and pathless, and the icy earth
Swung blind and blackening in the moonless air;
Morn came and went and came, and brought no day,
And men forgot their passions in the dread
Of this their desolation; and all hearts
Were this their desolation; and all hearts
Were chilled into a selfish prayer for light;
And they did live by watch fires—and the thrones,
The palaces of crowned Kings—the huts… .

* * *

The rivers, lakes, and ocean all stood still,
And nothing stirred within their silent depths;
Ships sailor less lay rotting on the sea,
And their masts fell down piecemeal; as they dropped
They slept on the abyss without a surge
The waves were dead; the tides were in their grave,
The Moon, their mistress, had expired before;

101

The winds were withered in the stagnant air
And the clouds perished; Darkness had no need
Of aid from them—She was the Universe.

HOTEL II

Hotel is an establishment that provides overnight lodging for the public. It’s basic service is providing a room to sleep in. But most hotels also have at least one restaurant. Many hotels offer rooms and services for meetings, and some have shops and offer entertainment.

www.ziyouz.com kutubxonasi
Hotels range in size from large buildings with more than 3,000 rooms to small inns that have as few as 8 to 10 rooms. Small hotels do not offer the range of services provided by the large establishments. However, rooms and meals at most small inns generally cost less than those at large hotels.

Hotels in North America employ about one staff member for every two rooms. The hotel staff works around the clock to make the guests comfortable. The housekeeping staff cleans each room daily. Bellhops carry luggage and packages to the guests rooms. The engineering department keeps the hotel’s electricity, plumbing, heat, and air conditioning in good working order. The hotel security department works to prevent fire, theft, and other disturbances.

Some hotel restaurants provide room service, by which guests can have food and beverages brought to their rooms. In certain hotels, guests also can have clothing laundered by the hotel’s valet service.

Motels differ from hotels in that they are designed specifically to serve automobile travelers. Most hotels occupy one multistory building that has a central lobby on the main floor. Guests reach their rooms through the lobby. Motels may consist of one or more buildings and always include a parking lot. Guests can enter their rooms directly from the lot. Many lodging operations offer both full hotel services and parking.

Exercise 5. Read and translate the poem using the dictionary.
THE INVADERS

by A.A. Milne

In careless patches through the wood
The clumps of yellow primrose stood,
And sheets of white anemones,
Like driven snow against the trees,
Had covered up the violet,
But left the bluebell bluer yet.
Along the narrow carpet ride,
With primroses on either side,
Between their shadows and the sun,
The cows came slowly, one by one,
Breathing the early morning air
And leaving it still sweeter there.
And, one by one, intent upon
Their purposes, they followed on
In ordered silence…and were gone

But all the little wood was still,
As if it waited so, until
Some blackbird on an outpost yew,
Watching the slow procession through,
Lifted his yellow beak at last
To whistle that the line had passed…
Then all the wood began to sing
Its morning anthem to the spring

Exercise 6. Learn the proverbs by heart.
1. One swallow does not make a summer.
Yolg'iz otning changi chiqmas.
Одна ласточка еще не делает весны.
2. To kill two birds with one stone,
Bir o'q bilan ikki quyonnini ovlamoq.
Убить двух зайцев одним ударом.
3. As you make your bed, so must you lie on it.
Har kim ekkanini o’radi.
Как постелишь, так и поспишь.
4. Dogs lie, let sleeping.
Yopig’li qozon yopig’li qolsin.
Не буди лиха, пока тихо.

KINDS OF HOTELS

There are three chief kinds of hotels: (1) commercial hotels, (2) resort hotels, and (3) residential hotels.

Commercial hotels. Most commercial hotels are near the airport or the downtown of large or medium sized cities. These hotels serve mainly business travelers and other people on short trips. Many commercial hotels provide luxurious surroundings and a wide range of services.

The guest in most commercial hotels have a choice of restaurant, Ranging from coffee shops to elegant dining rooms. Some of these restaurants offer music, dancing, and other entertainment. Shops in commercial hotels include clothing stores, gift shops, and newsstands. Some hotels have barber shops and beauty salons, and many have swimming pools and health spas. Most commercial hotels have a European plan of payment, which covers only the price of a room.

Many commercial hotels have large rooms that their guests and other groups can use for banquets, conventions, ad meetings. The hotel’s catering department provides meals and snacks for such events.

Resort hotels feature golf, skiing, swimming, and other outdoor activities that attract vacationers. The guests at these establishments stay for periods ranging from a weekend to several weeks. Most resort hotels are near lakes, mountains, or oceans. But many stand within easy reach of large cities and serve as vacation spots for nearby residents. Some operate in conjunction with gambling casinos.

Business is seasonal at most resort hotels. During the winter months, for example, large numbers of people travel to seaside and mountain resorts in tropical areas or go to ski lodges. Many resort hotels use the American plan of payment, which covers lodging and meals.

Resort hotels also provide indoor activities for their guests. Many have bowling alleys, game rooms, and indoor swimming pools and tennis courts. Some resort hotels feature dancing, music, and other entertainment.

Residential hotels rent one or more rooms to guests for long periods of time. These hotels resemble apartment buildings but also offer meals and maid valet service. Some residential hotels have small apartments with kitchenettes. Residential hotels called retirement hotels specialize in lodgings for senior citizens. Retirement hotels offer medical care as well as regular hotel services.

PASSAGE OF THE APENNINES
by Percy Bysshe Shelley

Listen, listen, Mary mine,
To the whisper of the Apennine,
It burst on the roof like the thunder’s roar,
Or line the sea on a northern shore,
Heard in its raging ebb and flow
By the captives pent in the cave below
The Apennine in the light of day
Is a mighty mountain dim and gray,
Which between the earth and sky doth lay;
But when night comes. a chaos dread
On the dim star light then is spread.
And the Apennine walks abroad with the storm.

GOOD NIGHT
by Percy Bysshe Shelley
Good night? Ah! No; the hour is ill
Which severs those it should unite;
Let us remain together still,
Then it will be good night.

How can I call the lone night good,
Though thy sweet wishes wing its flight?
Be is not said, thought, understood-
Then it will be good night.
To hearts which near each other move
From evening close to morning light,
The night is good, because, my love;
They never say good night.

THE DAFFODILS
by William Wordsworth

I wandered lonely as a cloud
That floats on high o’er vales and hills,
When all at once I saw a crowd,
A host of golden daffodils,
Beside the lake beneath the trees,
Fluttering and dancing in the breeze.

Continuous as the stars that shine
And twinkle on the Milky Way,
They stretched in never-ending line
Along the margin of a bay:
Ten thousand saw I at a glance
Tossing their heads in sprightly dance.

The waves beside them danced, but they
Out-did the sparkling waves in glee;
A poet could not but be gay
In gazed-and gazed-but little thought
What wealth the show to me had brought;

For oft, when on my couch I lie
In vacant or in pensive mood,
They flash upon that inward eye
Which is the bliss of solitude;
And then heart with pleasure fills,
And dances with the daffodils.

Exercise 6. Proverbs
Love me, love my dog.

Common idea about “what do you think about British food?”

Many visitors to Britain do not have a clear idea about British food; may be because there are not many British restaurants in other parts of the world. You may think that British people eat greasy food (like fish and chips or a fried breakfast) every day. You may be offered a cooked breakfast every day if you stay in a hotel or “Bed and Breakfast”, but this is not normal life. Most British people only eat these foods occasionally. (Perhaps once a week, or less often) Britain is a dairy country, so milk, butter, cheese and cream are used more than in some countries.

Perhaps you have already stayed in the U.K. and found the food boring or not tasty. This could be because you haven’t tasted good home cooking or the food in high quality restaurants. There is a very wide variety of food.

As well as the traditional British food there are also Chinese, Indian, Spanish, Italian, Turkish, Japanese dishes and so on. Ingredients are brought from many parts of the world and it’s possible to buy them in specialized shops and in ordinary supermarkets.

British farmers have had some problems in recent years due to the spread of BSE (Mad cow disease) within cattle in the 1990s, and then foot – and – mouth disease within sheep in 2001. These diseases caused many animals to be killed, and led to the introduction of new controls. Scientists believe that the new controls put in places will prevent passing the disease to humans. Foot – and – mouth in sheep is not passed on to humans by eating lamb, and since 2001 there have only been a few cases of diseases in sheep. So is it safe to eat British meat? Most British people continue to eat it, and the controls in the UK are now some of the tightest in the world.

There are many shops and restaurants selling vegetarian and organic food if you prefer to eat this.

Lesson 2

TYPICAL TRADITIONAL ENGLISH DISHES

Traditional English dishes have had competition from other dishes over the years. If you visit England, you will still be served up the traditional foods which have been eating for years.

E.G. Harry’s mouth fell open. The dishes in front of him were now piled with food. He had never seen so many things he liked to eat on the table: roast beef, roast chicken, pork chops and lamb chops, Yorkshire pudding, peas, carrots, gravy, ketchup and for some strange reason, mint hamburgs.

Harry Potter and the Philosopher Stone, J.K. Rowling.

Englishmen would eat most of the dishes below for their main meal of the day. Roast beef and Yorkshire pudding (roast meat, two vegetables and potatoes). This is England’s traditional Sunday lunch, which is a family affair.

Yorkshire pudding is not often eaten as a desert like other puddings but as a part of the main course.

Yorkshire pudding, made from flour, eggs and milk, is a sort of batter baked in the oven and usually moistened with gravy.

Toad in the hole (sausage covered in batter and roasted). Similar to Yorkshire pudding but with sausages placed in the batter before cooking.

Roast meats (cooked in the oven for about two hours). Typical meats for roasting are joints of beef, pork, lamb or a whole chicken. More rarely duck, goose, gammon, turkey or game are eaten. Beef is eaten with hot white horseradish sauce, pork with sweet apple sauce and lamb with green mint sauce.

Fish and chips – Fish (cod, haddock, huss, plaice) deep fried in flour batter with chips (fried potatoes) dressed in meat vinegar. This is England’s traditional take – away food or as US would say “to go”. Fish and chips are not

Bangers (sausages) and mash

A Christmas lunch: turkey, sausage bacon, bread sauce, sprouts, potatoe

Shepherd’s pie, peas and tomatoes normally home cooking but bought at a fish and chip shop (“chippie”) to eat on premises or as a “take away”.

Shepherds Pie (made with minced lamb and vegetables) topped with mashed potatoes and grated cheese.

Ploughman’s Lunch (a piece of cheese, a bit of pickle and pickled onion, and a chunk of bread). This is served in Pubs.

Hot Pot – a stew, cooked slowly in the oven consisting of meat and vegetables.

Cumberland Sausage - this famous pork sausage is usually presented coiled up like a long rope.

Favourite Children meals
Three favourite meals with children are: fish bingers and chips, pizza and baked beans or toast.

TEA

Britain is a tea-drinking nation. Every day they drink 165 million cups of the stuff and each year around 144 thousand tons of tea are imported. Many Britons like their tea strong and dark, but with a lot of milk. The traditional way of making tea is:

1. Boil some fresh cold water
2. Put some hot water into teapot to make it warm
3. Pour the water away
4. Put one teaspoon of tea-leaves per person, and one extra tea-spoon, into the pot.
5. Pour boiling water onto the tea
6. Leave for a few minutes to brew
7. Serve

Did you know?

If someone asks you if you would like a cuppa they are asking if you would like a cup of tea. If someone says “let me be mother or shall I be mother”, they are offering to pour out the tea from the teapot

Tea words and phrases:

Tea break, High Tea, Tea time, tea party, tea towel and so on. If something is not quite to your taste. It is probably not your cup of tea.

Coffee

Coffee is now as popular in Britain as tea is. People either drink it with milk or have it black and either have freshly-made coffee or instant coffee.

Exercise 3. Consult a dictionary and train the pronunciation of the word in the box.

Abundance, to lack wheat, angels, to be tired, to mix, magic, divine, sacred, to start

SUMALAK

Sumalak is a popular Uzbek national meal. It is famous for its sweet taste, abundance of vitamins when in spring people usually lack them. It takes the whole day to cook sumalak. Sumalak means seven angels (ser – seven, malak - angel). The origin of sumalak is very interesting and it has its own legend about its historical origination.

Once upon a time there lived a woman and she had many children. She lived with her children alone and she was very poor. They hardly got anything to eat. Once in early spring her children were very hungry, she couldn’t cook anything, because she had only some wheat, which was just growing. So she took wheat, water, several useful plants which grew at the mountains, seven nuts she found in the forest. She put them in kazan (it is a dish like a pan or a big cup) and mixed everything together. She cooked this meal mixing with a big spoon. She was very tired and at midnight she went to sleep.

When she was sleeping, seven angels (Uzbeks say malak, pari, they are not the very angels.) came flying to help her. Then seven angels or malaks sat around the kazan and started cooking this meal mixing it with big spoons. It is said that angels added their magic and divine taste and for that reason sumalak has very sweet taste though there is no sugar in it.

Sumalak is considered a sacred meal.

SUMALAK, THE RECIPE

For cooking sumalak women must have a bath, be clean. It is said if a person says a wish while mixing sumalak, the wish be realized. For that reason Uzbeks look forward to a day when sumalak is cooked.
For making this Uzbek national meal, you need wheat. The wheat is grown on a wooden broad. It is grown for 3-4 days until little sticks are seen. Then the wheat is put into the mikcer and is milled.

In a big kazan is put some oil, milled wheat, some flour, seven nuts and some water. Women sitting around the kazan mix it with big spoons for many hours. Usually it makes the whole day to prepare sumalak. About the evening women close the kazan with a lid and open it only in the morning. The meal will be of brown colour, so our sumalak is ready. You can taste very delicious sumalak. Bon appetite!

recipe ['resipi] – рецепт.
to mince – крошить рубить (мясо).
to mill – молоть, дробить (зерно).

Exercise 4. Read and guess the meaning of the words.

Lesson 5

SEARCHING FOR THE AMERICAN CUISINE

At the First International Food Summit Conference held in Bangkok a few years ago, the Americans weren’t invited to participate. Why? America doesn’t have a national cuisine, the French director said.

I have to admit he is right. America is a hodgepodge of everything from everywhere. But then, maybe after 200 years, it is time the Americans created a national cuisine. I decided to give my full attention to this last fall when I made a motor trip across the country.

I know you can’t make hamburgers a national dish, but I like hamburgers when hamburgers are served in America. Thus when I arrived in Los Angeles from Bangkok, I would have been contented dining on hamburgers for my first meal.

From Los Angeles I headed south, through New Mexico and Arizona. In small towns, away from the highways, I stopped at Mexican cantinas, where the food is hot. And what food! Wild, spicy tortillas. Enchiladas with cheese, and stuffed with red chilies. I like this food, but decided not to make enchiladas a national dish. From the Southwest I headed north, to middle America – the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin, a land with deep forests and tens of thousand of lakes. I spent the night in one town famous for its cheese. I ate cheeses I never tasted before. Those who live in the Midwest are like to their cheese from their own dairy farms. Their products are such favorites as Edam, Gouda, Cheddar, Mozzarella blue and Brie. But they also make cheese you wouldn’t find served anywhere in France – Ziederkrantz and brick Cheese – both native American.

I was anxious to reach the small Pennsylvania farming community where I was born. I was going home. Now here, certainly, I would find American’s national cuisine “You must be hungry, Harold”, my great aunt said when I sat down to break fast. My break fast was – sliced ham and sausage and four eggs, five pieces of toasts, home made jam, a couple glasses of bubbly fresh milk delivered that morning, followed by pots of coffee and freshly baked poppy – seed rolls.

In the land of plenty, it’s content rather than styled that counts. “Have some more” My aunt said and poured another cup of coffee and cut two more slabs of poppy – seed rolls.

From Pennsylvania I drove up to visit friends in New – England. Snow was still on the ground, and the fireplace glowed. “How about a good American meal as a reminder”, they said. And an American meal they served up that evening was that fat and freshly native American bird they call turkey. Turkey, as American as hamburgers! Turkey the centerpiece of Thanksgiving, originally the Pilgrims ceremony of gratitude for survival in their new and bounteous land. And what could have been more American than all the trimmings that went with our meal – chestnut stuffing, served with sweet potatoes, corn, Brussels sprouts, squash, succotash, creamed onions and cranberry sauce and topped off with pumpkin tie.

Exercise 1. Answer the questions to the text:

1. Why were not Americans invited to the first International Food Summit Conference?
2. Where was the 1st International Food Summit Conference held?
3. To what problem did the author decide to give his full attention?
4. What kind of trip did the author make across the country?
5. From what country did the author arrive in Los Angeles?
6. What would he like to have for his first meal?

THANKSGIVING DAY

In 1620, a religious community sailed across the Atlantic Ocean to settle in the New World. They settled in what is now known as the state of Massachusetts. Their first winter in America was difficult. They arrived too late to grow a rich harvest. Moreover, half the colony died from disease. The following spring the Iroquois Indians taught them how to grow corn. Indians showed them also how to grow other crops and how to hunt and fish.

In autumn of 1621 they got a beautiful harvest of corn, barley, beans and pumpkins. The colonists had much to be thankful for, so they planned a feast. Local Indian chief and ninety Indians were present. The colonists learned from Indians how to cook cranberries and dishes of corn and pumpkins.

In following years many of the colonists celebrated the harvest with a feast of thanks. After the United States gained independence, the Congress recommended one yearly day of thanksgiving for the whole country. Later, George Washington suggested the date November 26 as Thanksgiving Day. Then, after the civil war, Abraham Lincoln suggested the last Thursday in November to be the day of thanksgiving.

On Thanksgiving Day, family members gather at the house of an older relative, even if they live far away. All give thanks for everything good they have. Charitable organization offer traditional meal to the homeless.

Food, eaten at the first thanksgiving, have become traditional. The traditional thanksgiving meal consists of roast turkey stuffed with herb-flavoured bread, cranberry jelly, mashed potatoes, pumpkin pie. Other dishes may vary as to region: ham, sweet potatoes, creamed corn.
Exercise 1. Answer the questions to the text.

1. How did the first settlers express their gratitude to God for their survival in a New Land?
2. When do they celebrate this day?
3. What meal is usually prepared on that day?
4. Who thought the Europeans to grow corn, to hunt, to fish?

Exercise 2. Read the text, which festival is being described?

Exercise 4. Speak about your own country and its wealth.

AMERICANS LOOK FOR HEALTH ON THE MENU

According to the results of a new consumer survey Americans became more diet-conscious. People differed from very nutrition-conscious to those that were very indulgent. These dining styles existed across all walks of life, from young to old, rich and poor and among men and women and all races.

Among the other key findings are: watching weight and limiting fat intake continue to be common goals in choosing foods.

More than twenty – one percent of people are attempting to limit their intake of trans – fatty acids, carbohydrates and artificial sweeteners in their diet.

In addition 52 percent of adults report exercising twice a week, up from 48 percent a year ago. This increase and exercise in general was typical of the most nutrition-conscious groups. People are satisfied with healthy food available at dining restaurants and at fast food restaurants.

The survey also found that eating breakfast and dinner out grew by more than 27 percent. People ate breakfast away from home once a week and ate dinner out three times a week. Experts think that much still needs to be done to get Americans to eat healthier.

American adults just don’t get serious about nutrition until serious illness sets in. Though time convenience and value are important for the Americans, concerns about healthy food have now moved up and become very significant – new consumer survey informs now.
Exercise 1. Answer the question to the text.
1. What kind of people did Americans become according to the results of a new consumer survey?
2. Did dining styles exist across all walks of life?
3. What are the other key findings of the survey?
4. What percentage of people is attempting to keep a diet?
5. What are common goals in choosing foods?
6. What percentage of adults is exercising every week?
7. What is typical of the most nutrition-conscious groups?
8. Do all Americans take their meals only at home?
9. What do experts think about eating healthier?
10. What kind of products do they limit to intake?

Exercise 2. Define whether the statement true or false.
1. Dining styles existed only among men and women.
2. Watching weight and limiting fat intake are main goals in choosing foods.
3. Twenty-five percent of people are limiting their intake of Trans – fatty acids, carbohydrates and sweeteners.
4. The increase in exercising is typical of all groups of population.
5. Healthy meals are available in dining restaurants and at fast food restaurants.
6. Eating breakfast and dinner out grew by more than 27 percent.
7. Concerns about healthy food have now moved up and become significant.
8. Time, convenience and value in choosing food are not important for the Americans.

Look, read, and guess the meaning.
1. Diet conscious, nutrition conscious people – people who understand the importance of diet and keep to diet, to healthy food.
2. Consumer survey – researches studying the usage of foods.
4. Key findings – important findings.

Learn and remember: Word derivation

nutrition – noun – food [njuˈtrɪn] – питание, пища

5. Why you (not to know) your homework?
6. Why you (not to take) part in the competition?

Read the following text, translate it into your native language and discuss it in the classroom.

ISAAC NEWTON
(1642–1726)

Newton, one of the greatest scientists of all times, was born in 1642 in the little village Lincolnshire, England. His father was a farmer and died before Newton was born. His mother was a clever woman whom he always loved.

After the school, Newton studied mathematics at Cambridge University and received his degree in 1665. Then the University was closed because of the danger of plague and Newton went home for eighteen months. It was most important period in his life when he made his three great discoveries of the differential calculuses, of the nature of white light, and of the law of gravitation.

These discoveries are still important for the modern science. Newton had always been interested in the problems of light. Many people saw colours of rainbow but only Newton showed, by his experiments, that white light consists of these colours.

It is interesting how he discovered the law of gravitation. Once, as he sat at the garden, his attention was drawn by the fall of an apple. Many people saw such usual thing before. But it was Newton who asked himself a question: “Why does that apple fall perpendicularly to the ground? Why doesn’t it go sideward or upwards?” The answer to this question was the theory of gravitation, discovered by Newton.

Newton died at the age of 84, and was buried in Westminster Abbey, where his monument stands today.

QUEEN ELIZABETH II

At present the British Royal family is headed by Queen Elizabeth II. When the Queen was born on the 21st of April 1926, her grandfather, King George V was on the throne and her uncle was his heir. The death of her grandfather and the abdication of her uncle brought her father to the throne as King George VI.

As a child she studied constitutional history and law as well as art and music. In addition she learned to ride and acquired her enthusiasm for horses. As she grew older she began to take part in public life, making her first broadcast at the age 14.

The marriage of the young Princess Elizabeth to Philip, Duke of Edinburgh took place in November 1947. She came to the throne after her father's death in 1952 and was crowned in Westminster Abbey in June 1953.

The Queen's only sister, Princess Margaret, Countess of Snowdon is well-known for her charity work.

Among Queen Elizabeth's many duties are the regular visits she makes to foreign countries and especially those of the Commonwealth, whose interests and welfare are very important to her.

The Queen's husband, Duke of Edinburgh served in the Royal Navy. He takes a great deal of interest in industry.

The Queen's heir is Charles, Prince of Wales, who was born in 1948, married Lady Diana Spencer and has got two children, Prince William and Prince Harry. The Prince of Wales is well-known as a keen promoter of British interests.

In recent years he has become outspoken on such controversial topics as modern architecture, violence in films and on television and the standard of English teaching in schools. His wife Diana Princess of Wales won the affection of many people by her modesty, shyness and beauty. Unfortunately, she died in a car accident in August, 1997.

The Queen's other children are Princess Anne (1950), Prince Andrew (1960) and Prince Edward (1964). Anne, Princess Royal, has acquired a reputation for being arrogant, but in recent years has become quite popular with the general public.

Prince Andrew, Duke of York served in the Royal Navy. He married Miss Sarah Ferguson and has got two daughters.

Prince Edward is keen on the theatre. He is pursuing a career with a theatrical company.

The Queen is widely known for her interests in horses and horse-racing. She is now president of the Save of the Children Fund, Chancellor of the University of London and carries out many public engagements.

MIRZO ULUGBEK
(1394–1449)

Mukhammad Taragay Ulugbek is considered to be one of the most prominent astronomers and mathematicians of the fifteenth century. Mirzo Ulugbek, Great Temur’s grandson, made immeasurable contribution to the development of not only Medieval Mavorounnahr but also of the whole world. He made Samarkand famous as one of the leading cities of the Islam civilization. In 1424 Ulugbek built a madrasa, an institution of higher learning, where astronomy was taught. Later, namely in 1428, he began the construction of a magnificent three-level observatory in Samarkand. The Observatory, which was circular in shape, was over 50 metres in diameter and 35 meters high. Among the instruments specially constructed for the Observatory was a quadrant so large that part of the ground had to be removed to allow it to fit in the Observatory.

In 1437 Ulugbek, who was also Qori-person who can recite Qur’an by heart, published his most famous and enduring work, a new catalogue of stars entitled “Zijji Djadid Sultani”. In it he revisited the positions and magnitudes of stars observed by Ptolomy. He found many errors in the computations by Ptolomy. Ulugbek’s work included a diverse collection of observations and computations, the position of the fixed stars, the course of the stars, and the knowledge of time. Mirzo Ulugbek also computed the length of the year as 365 days 5 hours 49 minutes 15 seconds. In addition, he prepared Tables of Planetary Motions, which were very popular and in demand throughout the astronomical community. The prominent astronomer studied the yearly movements of the five bright planets: Saturn, Jupiter, Mars, Venus and Mercury. His data are still considered to be very accurate. In 1437 he also compiled a star catalogue giving the positions of 992 stars. His compilation of table of sine and tangents at one-degree intervals are accurate to eight decimal places.

Besides, Ulugbek is considered to compile the first new star map.

Read the following text, translate it into your native language, and discuss it in the classroom.

AMIR TIMUR IS A FAMOUS STATESMAN
(1336–1405)

1. Early Life.
The name of Amir Timur is known not only in Central Asia (Turon) but all over the world. He was a famous statesman, great military strategist and leader of the Uzbek people.

He was born on the 9th of April 1336 at Kesh, better known as Shahrisabz, “The green city”, situated some 50 miles south of Samarkand in modern Uzbekistan.
His father’s name was Amir Taragay. He was an authoritative rich man, the head of the tribe of Barlas.

His mother was a clever and noble woman and her name was Teguna. Amir Timur was well educated as his family was rich.

At the age of twelve Timur began to rule over the servants who served in their house and he knew how to protect the property of his father and how to oversee it. At the age of twenty he had not only become an expert in manly outdoor excercises but had earned the reputation of being an attentive reader of the Qur’an. Like his father, he was a muslim and seems to have been influenced by Nakshbandi Sufism.

2. Military Leader.

Timur was interested in military activities and state affairs. He spent much time in military training and getting a secular education. He came before the world as a military leader in 1358. He spent his whole life fighting against oppression, against the battle between the Khans and Beks.

Timur took part in campaigns in Transoxania with the khan of Chigatai, a descendant of Chenghis Khan. For Timur’s military talent and authority the Mongol Khan Tegluk appointed him the governor of Shahrisabz. So Amir Timur came to power. And soon he conquered Khorosan at the head of a thousand horseman and then all of the Mavoraunnahr, establishing a strong centralized state uniting separate kingdoms into one strong government.

3. Amir Timur is a Great Statesman

Amir Timur ruled and governed the country according to the law, following Islam and the rules of Shariat. And he also demanded his people to follow the law strictly. As leader he was interested in the life of common people. Amir Timur wanted the historians to write about the real life of the people.

The capital of Tamerlane’s empire was Samarkand. He wanted it to be the city of unsurpassed beauty and so he did it.

Amir Timur ruled the country over 35 years from 1370 to 1405. He died in February 1405 at the age of 69 and he was buried in Samarkand in Gur Emir mausoleum.

In 1996 UNESCO decided to celebrate Amir Temur’s 660 years anniversary. And there was a conference in Paris (France). I.A.Karimov delivered a speech at this conference.

MARTIN LUTHER KING
(1929–1968)

Martin Luther King, a black American, was born on the 15 th of January, 1929 in Atlanta. He was the main leader of the civil rights movement in the United States during the 1950’s and 1960’s. He had a magnificent speaking ability, which enabled him to effectively express the demands of black Americans for social justice. King’s eloquent pleas won the support of millions of people blacks and whites, and made him internationally famous. He won the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize for leading nonviolent civil rights demonstrations.

M. King expanded struggle against racism and discrimination. And soon afterwards president Kennedy proposed a wide ranging civil rights bill to Congress.

The Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibited racial discrimination in public places and called for equal opportunity in employment and education.

M. Luther King was arrested and jailed several times while protesting against injustice and discrimination. From a Birmingham jail he wrote: “Injustice anywhere is a threat of justice everywhere”.

www.ziyouz.com kutubxonasi
In spite of King’s stress on nonviolence, he often become the target of violence. White racists threw rocks at him in Chicago and bombed his home in Montgomery. Finally, violence ended King’s life at the age of 39. On April 4, 1968 King was shot and killed. People throughout the world mourned King’s death. He was buried in Atlanta. On King’s tombstone are the words: “Free at last, free at last, thank God Almighty, I am free at last.”

M.L. King became only the second American whose birthday is observed as a national holiday. The first was George Washington, the nation’s first President. Martin Luther King wrote five books about civil rights.

1. King’s Civil Rights activity.

King’s civil rights activities began with a protest of Montgomery’s segregated bus system in 1955. That year a black passenger named Rosa Parks was arrested for disobeying a city law requiring that blacks give up their seats. Black leaders in Montgomery urged blacks to boycott (refuse to use) the city’s buses. Black people formed an organization to run the boycott and asked King to serve as president.

In his first speech as leader of the boycott King told his people “First and foremost, we are American citizens. We are not here advocating violence…. The only weapon that we have… is the weapon of protest”. And in 1956 the US Supreme Court ordered Montgomery to provide equal, integrated seating on public buses. Boycott’s success won King national fame and he became the symbol of Southern black’s new efforts to fight racial injustice.

GEORGE WASHINGTON
(1732–1799)

George Washington won a lasting place in American history as the “Father of His Country”. For nearly 20 years, he guided his country much as a father cares for a growing child.

George Washington was born in Virginia on February 22, 1732. When he was three, his family moved to the large undeveloped plantation that was later called Mount Vernon which lay about 50 miles up the Potomac River.
He began going to school when the family moved to Ferry Farm. His favourite subject was mathematics. He studied enough history and geography to know something of the outside world. His father wanted him to study in England. But unfortunately he died when he was eleven. After his father’s death, George’s mother did not want him to be away from home for long time. Washington inherited a good mind and a strong body and by the time he finished school at the age 15 George could keep business account.

In three important ways Washington helped to shape the beginning of the United States.

First, he commanded the Continental Army that won American independence from Great Britain in the Revolutionary War.

Second, Washington served as president of the convention that wrote the United States Constitution.

Third, he was the first man elected President of the United States.

By the summer of 1788 enough states had approved the Constitution so the government could be organized. Throughout the country, people linked Washington’s name directly to the new Constitution. They took it for granted that he would be chosen as the first President.

In February, 1789 they unanimously elected Washington as a President. Taking office (April 30, 1789) in New York City, Washington acted carefully. After becoming the President, he successfully solved many problems in turning the plans of the Constitution into a working government. The people used to say about Washington “First in War, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen”.

Washington was reelected the president in 1792. But by March 1797, when Washington left office, the country’s financial system was well established. Washington refused to run for a third term. He preferred to spend his last years in happy retirement at Mount Vernon. In mid-December, Washington died at his estate on December 14, 1799.

TEXT I

STATUE OF LIBERTY HISTORY

The Statue of Liberty National Monument officially celebrated her 100th birthday on October 28, 1986. The people of France gave the Statue to the people of the United States over one hundred years ago in recognition of the friendship established during the American Revolution. Over the years, the Statue of Liberty has grown to include freedom and democracy as well as this international friendship.

Sculptor Frederic Auguste Bartholdi was commissioned (appointed to design sculpture with the year 1876 in mind for completion, to commemorate the centennial of the American Declaration of Independence. The statue was a joint effort between America and France. It was agreed upon that the American people were to build the pedestal and the French people were responsible for the statue and its assembly in the United States.

But lack of (money) funds was a problem on both sides of the Atlantic Ocean. In France, public fees, various forms of entertainment, and a lottery were used to raise funds. In the United States, benefit theatrical events, art exhibitions, auctions and prize fights assisted in providing needed funds.

The Statue was completed in France in July, 1884 and pedestal construction was finished in April 1886. The Statue arrived in New York Harbor in June of 1885 on board the French frigate “Isere” which transported the Statue of Liberty from France to the United States. In transit, the Statue was reduced to 350 individual pieces and packed in 214 crates. The Statue was re-assembled on her new pedestal in the Ellis Island in the New York Harbor in 4 months time. On October 28th 1886, the dedication of the Statue of Liberty took place in front of thousands of spectators. She was a centennial gift ten years late.

TEXT II

There are 25 windows in the crown which symbolize gemstones found on the earth and the heaven’s rays shining over the world. The seven rays of the Statue’s crown represent the seven seas and continents of the world. The tablet which the Statue holds in her left hand reads (in Roman numerals) July 4th, 1776. In her right hand she holds a torch.

Height from ground to tip of torch is 92.99m.

Note: Lady Liberty - she

The total weight of copper in the statue is 62000 pounds (31 tons) and the total weight of steel in the statue is 250000 pounds (125 tons). Total weight of the statue’s concrete foundation is 54 million pounds (27000 tons).

Wind sway: winds of 50 miles per hour cause the statue to sway 3 inches (7.62 cm) and the torch sways 5 inches (12.70 cm)

Lesson 5

INDEPENDENCE DAY (4 JULY)

Independence Day is regarded as the birthday of the United States as a free and independent nation. Most Americans simply call it the “Fourth of July,” on which date it always falls. July 4, 1776, John Hancock, Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin, well known patriots declared the Independence of the 13 American colonies from Great Britain.

The holidays recalls the signing the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776. At that time, the people of the 13 British colonies located along the eastern coast of what is now the United States were involved in a war over what they considered unjust treatment by the king and parliament in Britain. The war began in 1775. As the war continued, the colonists realized that they were fighting not just for better treatment; they were fighting for freedom from the England’s rules. The Declaration of Independence, signed by the leaders from the colonies, stated this clearly, and for the first time in an official document the colonies were referred to as the United States of America. Independence Day is a federal holiday celebrating the Adoption of the Declaration of Independence declaring Independence from the Kingdom of Great Britain.

It is a day of picnics and patriotic parades, a night of concerts and fireworks. The flying of the American flag (which also occurs on Memorial Day and other holidays) is widespread. On July 4, 1976, the 200th anniversary of the Declaration of Independence was marked by grand festivals across the nation.

AT THE DOCTOR’S

My mother suddenly fell ill. She was feverish and felt very bad. She had a splitting headache and a terrible cough. We telephoned for our district doctor.

The doctor came and examined her, felt her pulse, took her temperature and measured her blood pressure.

The doctor said that it might be pneumonia and told mother she must go to hospital for investigation and cure. But mother wouldn’t hear of it.

So the doctor prescribed her injections, a cough-mixture, tablets, mustard plasters and hot-water bottle at the feet.

Next the doctor wrote a note for an X-ray and blood examination. The doctor put down everything she found in my mother’s patient’s file.

The prescription which the doctor left was made up at the chemist’s. We followed the doctor’s instruction and in two weeks mother felt much better. I took her to the polyclinic for a check-up. Mother went to the doctor’s consulting room and soon she came out. The doctor said she was recovering.

IS IT DIFFICULT TO CATCH HIV AND AIDS?

AIDS and HIV are international problems which touch people in every country of the world. Your body has some power to fight disease. This is called your body’s immune system. HIV is a virus to fight disease. HIV can pass from one person to another through sharing needles for drugs. HIV causes AIDS but not everyone who has HIV looks sick. It can take from two to ten or more years before someone who is HIV + becomes sick with AIDS. The only way to find out if someone has HIV is for them to get tested for the virus.

NATIONAL HEALTH IN GREAT BRITAIN.
THE NATION HEALTH

The National Health Service Act of 1946 established the socialized health care system that went into effect in 1948. Because citizens were deemed to have a right to free health care, it provided free medical care for all British people regardless of income.

The system covered physician and dental services, prescription drugs, hospital care, eyeglasses and dentures. It provided better health care than most people could previously afford, but the program cost more than anticipated. Therefore, some charges were introduced for prescriptions, dentures and eyeglasses. Nevertheless, costs for the government remained high due to expensive new technologies, as well as the growing demand for services, especially by the increasing number of elderly people.

In Britain, when you’re ill, you go to a doctor near your home. Doctors are men and women and you can say who you prefer. You usually only spend about 10 minutes with the doctor. They can usually say what the matter is very quickly and often give you a prescription for some medicine. You will have them made up at the chemist’s shop. If not, they may suggest you go to a specialist.
Most people only go to their doctor when they are ill. People with colds and coughs don’t go to their doctor but to the chemist to buy medicine.

Doctors only come to your home when you’re very ill. In an emergency you can call an ambulance on 999. Friends and relatives visit you in hospital at certain hours of the day, but they don’t stay there.

You don’t pay for a visit to the doctor or to the hospital in Britain, but when you work you pay a government tax for your medical care. You also pay for prescriptions if you are over 18.

But treatment fees for items such as prescriptions and eyewear have continued to rise for patients in recent decades. Certain patients—including children, pregnant women, the unemployed, those disabled in the armed forces, men over 65 and women over 60—are free from payment or fees. Hospital care remains free. Most doctors, dentists, nurses and health care professionals are members of the National Health Service (NHS), although some see fee-paying private patients outside of the system.

The Federal Department of Health Education, and Welfare (now the Department of Health and Human Services) was created in 1953, it underwrote the construction of hospitals and clinics and provided funds for medical research. Medicare and Medicaid were added to the Social Security laws in the mid-1960s to offer medical care to the elderly and to the needy.

Medicare Health Insurance. The medicare program, established in 1966 provides health insurance coverage for Americans above the retirement age of 65...

Access to modern medicine also began to equalize with the new Deal. After 1935 the Social Security Administration began to provide medical aid to children, pregnant women, and the disabled. During this time, private, commercial health insurance began to be developed. In 1929 a group of school teachers in Dallas, Texas, contracted with a local hospital to provide health coverage for a fixed fee. Shortly there after the American Hospital Associ-

Diseases which take a high toll of human lives are: tuberculosis, cancer, heart diseases, AIDS and HIV. The number of new cases of tuberculosis in the United States is growing since 1980. But many researchers attribute the sharp increase of cases in the early 1990s syndrome (AIDS). People with AIDS have weakened immune systems and are particularly susceptible to contagious diseases such as tuberculosis. Poorly supervised treatment of tuberculosis also led to an increase in drug-resistant strains of the bacteria that cause tuberculosis, furthering the spread of the disease. Renewed emphasis on control and prevention has brought the incidence of tuberculosis to record low levels since those days of miracle drugs had been invented. However, the rates for cancer have risen, despite considerable improvements in treatment. Cancer of death in the United States at the beginning of the 21st century in part due to the arguements of the American population and the successes in curing other diseases. Another reason of appearing of these diseases is more common, is the unhealthy lifestyle of many Americans, who eat high-fat foods and high calorie snacks and do not exercise enough. In addition, pollution is a suspected cause of cancer.

Cancer and heart disease were the leading causes of death in United States at the end of the 20th century.

Additionally, new diseases emerged and old diseases resurfaced in the last quarter of the 20th century. The most serious of the new diseases was Acquired immuno deficiency syndrome (AIDS) in 1995 it ranked as the eighth leading cause of death in the United States, but it has since declined significantly. Some diseases – such as tuberculosis, thought to be nearly wiped out because of antibiotics – developed resistance to drugs most commonly used to treat it. But cases of tuberculosis increased during the 1980s, and decreased only after 1991, when the government started taking aggressive steps to halt the increase.
